Charter Time Warner Cable Bright House Networks Public Interest Statement Summary

PUBLIC INTEREST STATEMENT (Summary)

Edgar Filing: TIME WARNER CABLE INC. - Form 425

On June 25, Charter Communications, Inc., Time Warner Cable Inc., Bright House Networks LLC, and Advance/Newhouse Partnership filed a public interest statement seeking the FCC's approval of license transfers arising from Charter's proposed merger with Time Warner Cable (TWC) and acquisition of Bright House Networks (BHN). The merger will result in the creation of New Charter - an advanced, growth-oriented broadband cable company that will combine the best of the three companies for the benefit of consumers. New Charter will have the resources to extend Charter's existing pro-customer and pro-broadband business model throughout its new service area and build upon Time Warner Cable's operating momentum and diversity initiatives as well as Bright House Network's highly regarded customer service expertise.

Time Warner Cable and Bright House Network customers will benefit from Charter's pro-customer and pro-broadband model: faster Internet for online video, affordable prices, transparent billing and commitment to American jobs. Faster speeds. Charter's slowest broadband tier is 60 Mbps, which enhances the ability of several people in the same house to watch streaming high-definition video at the same time. We will offer this fast, minimum broadband speed (60 Mbps) to TWC and BHN customers. Additionally, New Charter will expand TWC's and BHN's highly advanced 300 Mbps service.

Affordable, unlimited broadband. New Charter will price its new 60 Mbps entry level speeds based on Charter's current model, which is less expensive for consumers than Time Warner Cable's and Bright House Networks' comparable offerings. It features straightforward, nationally uniform pricing with no data caps, no usage-based pricing, no modem fees, no early termination fees, and does not pass on federal or state Universal Service Fund (USF) fees to customers.

Committed to Net Neutrality. Consistent with its commitment to delivering superior broadband designed for online video and data-hungry apps, Charter has long practiced network neutrality and consistently invested in interconnection capacity to avoid network congestion. Indeed, we commit to go further than the FCC's Order by agreeing not to impose data caps or engage in usage-based billing.

Investing in customer care. Recognizing the negative view that many Americans have of cable customer service, we are focused on improving New Charter's customer service and will leverage the transaction to better our relationships with our customers across our footprint. Over the last three years, Charter has brought back jobs from overseas call centers and hired thousands of people to improve our customer care services. As part of our effort, New Charter will also return TWC call center jobs to the United States and will hire and train thousands of new employees for its customer service call centers and field technician operations.

A quicker rollout of advanced technology. While Charter is almost 100% digital today, TWC and BHN are not all of the way there. We will complete the full digitization of TWC and BHN-freeing up spectrum that will allow for faster broadband speeds and more high-definition channels and On-Demand offerings.

New Charter customers will transition to Charter's new cloud-based guide. The new guide will offer intuitive search and discovery and will work on old and new set-top boxes, so consumers will get the benefits of the new guide without needing a technician to visit or to pay more for a new box.

As proof of its intention to continue pro-consumer strategies, New Charter is making legally enforceable commitments that put consumers first.

New Charter will continue to commit to a free and open Internet. New Charter will not block or slow down Internet traffic or engage in paid prioritization-the same commitment already followed by Charter today.

New Charter will continue to engage in reasonable and non-discriminatory interconnection and submit any interconnection disputes to the FCC for resolutions on a case-by-case basis.

New Charter will continue to create thousands of U.S.-based jobs by hiring for customer service call centers and field technician operations located throughout the country and returning TWC call center jobs to the U.S.

New Charter will make comprehensive and significant investments in its broadband network. The company will transition TWC and BHN cables systems to all-digital networks, enabling consumers to take advantage of at least 60 Mbps download speeds and enjoy more High Definition and video on demand options.

New Charter will broaden access to broadband by building upon BHN's broadband program for low-income consumers. New Charter will enrich BHN's program by raising speeds and expanding eligibility while still offering a discounted price, and will expand the program across the New Charter footprint.

New Charter will recognize the vital importance of promoting diversity and inclusion strongly rooted in the communities it serves. New Charter will expand TWC's commitment to diversity and inclusion in governance, employment practices, procurement and community partnerships.

New Charter will invest significantly in both in-home and out-of-home WiFi. New Charter will increase competition in the mobile data market by deploying over 300,000 out-of-home WiFi access points.

New Charter will build out one million line extensions of our networks into residential areas within our footprint beyond where we currently operate. These new facilities will help provide high-speed service to rural and other underserved areas.

New Charter will invest at least $2.5 billion in the build-out of networks into commercial areas within our footprint beyond where we currently operate. This will create additional, much-needed competition in the commercial sector.

What They Are Saying About New Charter

What They Are Saying about New Charter

Gene Kimmelman, President And CEO Of Public Knowledge: "The Facts Here Are A Lot More Favorable To Charter Than They Were To Comcast." "The facts here are a lot more favorable to Charter than they were to Comcast," said Former Justice Department antitrust official Gene Kimmelman, now the head of the advocacy group Public Knowledge.” (Gautham Nagesh and Joe Flint, “Charter’s Deal With TWC More Likely to Get Approval Than Comcast,” Wall Street Journal, 5/26/15)

“John Bergmayer, A Senior Staff Attorney For Public Knowledge, A Consumer Advocacy Group, Said The Charter Deal Doesn’t Raise The Same Level Of Concerns Over Gatekeeper Power That Led His Group To Oppose The Comcast Merger.” (Brendan Sasso, “Why Charter Thinks It Can Succeed Where Comcast Failed,” National Journal, 5/26/15)

“[Bergmayer] Also Argued That Charter Has A Better Track Record Of Regulatory Compliance, Claiming That Comcast Failed To Follow Some Of The Conditions On Its 2011 Purchase Of NBC-Universal.” (Brendan Sasso, “Why Charter Thinks It Can Succeed Where Comcast Failed,” National Journal, 5/26/15)

Charter’s Customer-Satisfaction Score Up Five Percent. “A recent American Consumer Satisfaction survey of U.S. cable subscribers found that Charter ranked in the middle of the pay-TV pack in terms of customer satisfaction. However, the company’s overall score improved 5 percent during the past year, and it was among the top performers among cable companies.” (Daniel Frankel, “Charter’s Rutledge: Consumers Will Be Happier With Cable If They Never Have To See the Cable Guy,” Hollywood Reporter, 6/18/15)

New Charter Is Significantly Different Than Comcast/Time Warner Cable Merger

“Comcast Had Nearly Double The High-Speed Broadband Market Share Of Charter, Time Warner Cable And Bright House Combined As Of The End Of 2014.” “Moreover, Comcast had nearly double the high-speed broadband market share of Charter, Time Warner Cable and Bright House combined as of the end of 2014, according to New Street, and would thus have less leverage over Internet-video programmers.” (Miriam Gottfried, “Charter’s Chances With Time Warner Cable Look Good,” The Wall Street Journal, 6/24/15)

The Government Opposed Comcast/Time Warner Cable Merger Because It Did Not Want Comcast To Be The “Gatekeeper To The Internet.” “A major reason for the government’s opposition to Comcast’s merger was fear that the merged company could have acted as a gatekeeper to the Internet and controlled the future of online video...Comcast would have controlled nearly 60 percent of the broadband market with its merger.” (Brendan Sasso, “Why Charter Thinks It Can Succeed Where Comcast Failed,” National Journal, 5/26/15)

Unlike Comcast, Charter Has No Stake In National TV Programming. “Charter says it has no stake in national TV programming, a reference to regulator concerns that Comcast (with its ownership of content through NBC Universal) could have used its greater power to demand concessions from companies that either rely on NBC’s content or compete against it.” (Brian Fung, “The Latest Time Warner Cable Merger Isn’t Comcast All Over Again, Execs Argue,” Washington Post, 5/26/15)

Government Regulators Were Concerned About The Proprietary Set Top Box Used By Comcast, While Charter Uses A Non-Proprietary, Open Platform. “The government was troubled by how Comcast’s ownership of device assets affected its motive and means to distort the OVD market... By contrast, the Set Top Box platform being used by Charter (unveiled at CES) is a non-proprietary, open platform that is not likely to cause the same heartburn to the government.” (Jonathan Chaplin, Spencer Kurn, Zach Monsma, Vivek Stalam, “Cable M&A Update,” New Street Research, 5/20/15)

This time around, Herring has ‘absolutely no issues’ with Charter buying TWC of Bright House, pres Charles Herring told us.” (“Rutledge’s New Deal: Different Lens for Charter-TWC, Bright House,” Cable Fax Daily, Volume 26, No. 100, 5/27/15)

“Over The Last Several Years, Charter Has Demonstrated That It Has A Pattern And Practice Of Extending Fair Carriage Consideration To Independent Programming Services.” ““Over the last several years, Charter has demonstrated that it has a pattern and practice of extending fair carriage consideration to independent programming services.
