Letter to Partners - June 4, 2009

Dear Partner,

Today Intel and Wind River announced that both companies have entered into a definitive agreement under which Intel will acquire Wind River. Wind River will become a wholly owned subsidiary of Intel, maintaining its current customers, products, and operating model. Together, both companies will be better positioned to support the significant market growth and demands of the embedded and mobile industries.

As a wholly owned subsidiary, Wind River will continue to innovate its broad, commercial-grade product portfolio across the entire set of hardware architectures, from multiple silicon providers, that it supports today. We will continue to deliver the same world-class support to which our customers worldwide have grown accustomed. Additionally, we recognize the importance of support over the lifecycle of a product, and commit to support the ongoing hardware compatibility that is expected from the embedded software leader.

In order to continue to support multiple architectures, Intel has committed to Wind River's independence by allowing it to run its own P&L, make autonomous decisions and implement rigorous firewall measures.

We believe this agreement represents a transformational shift in the embedded and mobile industries. Over the course of the next few months we will continue sharing with you progress and updates. In the meantime, if you have any questions, please feel free to contact me directly. To learn more about the acquisition please visit www.windriver.com.

This document contains forward-looking statements based on current expectations or beliefs, as well as a number of assumptions about future events, and these statements are subject to factors and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements. The reader is cautioned not to put undue reliance on these forward-looking statements, which are not a guarantee of future performance and are subject to a number of uncertainties and other factors, many of which are outside the control of Intel and Wind River. The forward-looking statements in this document address a variety of subjects including, for example, the expected date of closing of the acquisition and the potential benefits of the merger. The following factors, among others, could cause actual results to differ materially from those described in these forward-looking statements: the risk that Wind River's business will not be successfully integrated with Intel's business; costs associated with the merger; the unsuccessful completion of the tender offer; matters arising in connection with the parties' efforts to comply with and satisfy applicable regulatory approvals and closing conditions relating to the transaction; increased competition and technological changes in the industries in which Intel and Wind River compete and other events that could negatively impact the completion of the transaction, including industry, economic or political conditions outside of our control.

The tender offer for the outstanding shares of common stock of Wind River has not yet commenced. No statement in this document is an offer to purchase or a solicitation of an offer to sell securities. At the time the tender offer is commenced, Intel Corporation and a wholly-owned subsidiary of Intel Corporation will file a tender offer statement on Schedule TO with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and Wind River will file a solicitation/recommendation statement on Schedule 14D-9 with respect to the tender offer. The tender offer statement (including an offer to purchase, a related letter of transmittal and other offer documents) and the solicitation/recommendation statement will contain important information that should be read carefully before any decision is made with respect to the tender offer. Such materials will be made available to Wind River's stockholders at no expense to them. In addition, such materials (and all other offer documents filed with the SEC) will be available at no charge on the SEC's Web site: www.sec.gov.
