Downey Bridgwater, Chairman, President and CEO of Sterling Bancshares, Inc.:

Hello, everyone. I'm pleased to be able to report to you that this morning we announced our intention to merge with the largest U.S. bank based in Texas, Comerica. The transaction, which has been approved by the Comerica and Sterling Boards of Directors, is expected to be completed by mid-year 2011 after regulatory and Sterling shareholder approvals are received.

This merger presents a unique opportunity for Sterling and Comerica. We have a very appealing branch network and once the merger is completed, the combined company will have 152 banking centers in Texas, including 65 in Houston, 63 in Dallas/Fort Worth, 13 in San Antonio and 11 in Austin.

We also have a very attractive deposit base, with a relatively large component of noninterest-bearing deposits. With Sterling and Comerica combined, based on June 30th FDIC data, our deposits would be ranked 6th in the state of Texas with total deposits of $9.4 billion. Sterling and Comerica's combined deposits have increased to over $10 billion as of December 31. We believe this merger gives us the ability to leverage additional marketing capacity to offer a wide array of products and services through a larger distribution network, particularly to our customers within our small and medium-sized business segment.

This merger also provides an opportunity for us to join forces with a large, strong, and very successful organization. While we've worked hard over the years to remain independent, as I've said many times, there's never been a guarantee we should remain that way forever, and we must do what's best for the bank and all its constituents, including our customers and employees as well as our shareholders.

I want to thank each and every one of you for all you've done to get us to this point. Your hard work and care for our customers has made us a very attractive franchise. The reputation we have for quality relationship banking, experienced bankers, and a positive work environment have made Sterling Bank and its team a highly desirable partner. That's a good thing. It has made today's merger possible, and it's something you can take great pride in.

Now, I'd like to tell you a few things about who we're merging with:

Comerica and its predecessors have successfully navigated our nation's economic ups and downs for more than 160 years. Operating in Michigan since 1849, Comerica expanded into Florida in 1982, entered the Texas banking market in 1988, and expanded into California in 1991. In 2007, Comerica moved its headquarters to Dallas, instantly making Comerica the largest Texas-based U.S. bank.

Like Sterling, Comerica has succeeded with its "Main Street Banking" business model that makes relationships its number one priority. They operate 444 banking centers around the U.S. In addition to Texas, Comerica Bank locations can be found in Arizona, California, Florida and Michigan, with select businesses operating in several other states, as well as in Canada and Mexico, with total assets of $53.7 billion as of the end of 2010.

Now our task is to stay focused on our customers and continue to deliver the quality banking for which we're known. Until this merger is complete it's more important than ever to let our customers know that Sterling will continue to be the best place to bank. We want to continue to demonstrate that truth to our customers and everyone in our communities. Be sure to let your customers know that merging with Comerica will provide additional products and services that will allow us to serve them even better than before. In the meantime, please continue to pursue growth in our markets and do the things necessary to keep our franchise moving forward.

I'm sure many of you have questions about our structure and, of course, what role you'll play in all of this. We'll have an all employee meeting this afternoon at 5:30 PM in each of our markets that I encourage you to attend. Comerica has offered to have one of their leadership team members present at each meeting to provide an introduction to their organization. Please check your email or with your manager to determine the location for your meeting. We'll keep you informed of developments as we move forward. Thank you for your professionalism, your care for our customers, and your support as we move to a whole new era of banking in Texas.

Now, I'd like to introduce to you, the Chairman and CEO of Comerica, Ralph Babb,

Ralph .

Ralph W. Babb, Jr., Chairman and CEO of Comerica Incorporated:

Thank you, Downey. This is an exciting day for Sterling and for Comerica, because today we announced a strategically compelling and unique opportunity that brings together two organizations that share a strong commitment to relationship banking and serving the community.

This is good news for Sterling shareholders, customers and employees. Comerica shares your vision and values, and passion for doing business in the great state of Texas, which we believe is an attractive market with excellent growth opportunities.

As Downey mentioned, we are a Main Street bank. That is, while we have the resources of a large bank, we have the continued touch and feel of a community bank.

Like you, we are a very customer-focused organization. Business banking is our bread-and-butter, too. Our cultures are very much alike, and that is a big reason why this combination is such a great fit.

This really is an exciting time for Sterling and for Comerica.

Our senior leadership team looks forward to meeting you today at 5:30 and in the days, weeks and months ahead. You will find Comerica's leadership team to be accessible and available to you and your customers. That's an important part of our relationship approach to banking.

We certainly expect a smooth and seamless integration going forward, particularly as our organizations are so much alike.

Thanks for the opportunity to say hello today.

Have a great day.
