Item 1.01 Entry into Material Definitive Agreement.

On September 7, 2007, Halozyme, Inc., a subsidiary of Halozyme Therapeutics, Inc. ( Halozyme ), Baxter Healthcare Corporation ( BHC ) and Baxter Healthcare S.A. ( BHSA and along with BHC, collectively, Baxter ) entered into an Enhance Technology License and Collaboration Agreement (the License ).

Under the terms of the License, Baxter will obtain a worldwide, exclusive license to develop and commercialize product combinations of rHuPH20, Halozyme s proprietary recombinant human hyaluronidase, with a current Baxter product, Gammagard Liquid . Baxter made an initial upfront payment to Halozyme of $10 million and, pending successful completion of a series of regulatory and sales milestones, Baxter may make further milestone payments totaling $37 million to Halozyme. In addition, Baxter will pay royalties on the sales, if any, of the products that result from the collaboration. The License is applicable to both kit and co-formulation combinations. Baxter will assume all development, manufacturing, clinical, regulatory, sales and marketing costs under the License, while Halozyme will be responsible for the supply of the rHuPH20 enzyme. In addition, Baxter has certain product development and commercialization obligations in major markets identified in the License.

The preceding description of the License is a summary of the material terms of that agreement and does not purport to be complete and is qualified in its entirety by the copy of such agreement which is filed as Exhibit 99.1 to this Form 8-K.
