Caremark Shareholders to Receive Special Dividend Following Merger With CVS

- CVS/Caremark to Retire 150 Million Shares to Optimize Capital Structure
- Companies Now Expect Double-Digit Cents-Per-Share Accretion in 2008 And Higher Return on Equity
- Merger Also Expected to Generate Incremental Revenues of $800 Million to $1 Billion in 2008 and Significantly More Thereafter

WOONSOCKET, R.I. & NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 16, 2007 □ CVS Corporation (NYSE: CVS) and Caremark Rx, Inc. (NYSE: CMX) announced today that they have taken several steps to enhance the value of their proposed merger for shareholders of both companies, including the payment after the merger closes of a special onetime cash dividend of $2.00 per share to Caremark shareholders as of the dividend record date.

CVS and Caremark also announced they will retire 150 million of the outstanding shares in the new company, representing approximately 10 percent of the combined company's outstanding shares, promptly following the close of the transaction. The share retirement is expected to enable the new company to achieve double-digit cents-per-share accretion and significantly increase the combined company's return on equity in 2008. The companies have secured bank commitments for $5 billion to fund the share retirement program. CVS and Caremark expect the new company will have a strong investment grade credit rating and retain sufficient balance sheet flexibility to make investments in future growth as well as return value to shareholders through dividends and share repurchases.

The original terms of the CVS/Caremark merger agreement remain unchanged. Caremark shareholders will receive 1.67 shares of CVS/Caremark stock for each share of Caremark they own in the merger of equals transaction. On a pro forma basis, CVS stockholders will own 54.5% of the combined company and Caremark stockholders will own 45.5%. Both the special dividend and share retirement programs are conditioned upon closing of the transaction.

CVS and Caremark have begun integration planning as a result of having received antitrust clearance for their merger on December 20, 2006. The companies previously announced that they have conservatively estimated annual cost synergies of $500 million. In addition, as a result of further preliminary joint integration planning, the companies said they now expect to achieve between $800 million and $1 billion in incremental revenues in 2008 and significantly more thereafter. The incremental revenues are expected to be generated by the differentiated new offerings that only a drugstore/PBM combination can provide.

"We are very pleased to announce today several steps taken by CVS and Caremark that will deliver additional value to both shareholder bases while significantly enhancing the capital structure of our combined company going forward," said Mac Crawford, Chairman, CEO and President of Caremark. "We believe the dividend payment and share repurchase augment the already significant value that will be created by our merger and demonstrates our strong commitment to completing this transaction."

"As CVS and Caremark have worked our way through the merger process, we have grown increasingly enthusiastic about the strategic benefits of our merger, and about the additional financial flexibility our partnership will create," said Tom Ryan, Chairman, President and CEO of CVS. "Today's announcement is further evidence that not only will CVS/Caremark be uniquely positioned to address the country's evolving healthcare needs, but we can do it in a way that rewards our shareholders for years to come."

The companies will be filing revised joint proxy materials with the Securities and Exchange Commission today updating disclosure to reflect these matters.
