VERIZON ANNOUNCES ESTIMATED CHARGES
AND ONGOING SAVINGS FROM VOLUNTARY SEPARATION PLAN

NEW YORK -- Verizon Communications Inc. (NYSE:VZ) today estimated that it expects to record an after-tax fourth-quarter charge of approximately $2.8 billion, or 99 cents in fully diluted earnings per share, associated with a voluntary separation plan under which 21,260 employees left the payroll this quarter.

Approximately $1.1 billion of this charge involves cash severance payments and related costs associated with the voluntary separation program. The remainder represents Verizon's pension and post-retirement benefits costs.

In addition, the company expects to record a charge related to pension settlements of $0.7 billion to $0.9 billion, after taxes, mostly in the first quarter of 2004. This charge primarily represents the immediate recognition of deferred pension-plan investment results and is required when pension payments become significant. Most volunteers have elected to receive lump-sum pension payments in the first quarter. Charges are recorded in the quarter the payments are made.

ONGOING EXPENSES REDUCED

"Through this voluntary program, we have swiftly and aggressively reduced ongoing expenses," said Verizon Chief Financial Officer Doreen Toben. "By capturing the productivity gains created by process improvements, we will achieve about $1 billion in annual pre-tax cash savings from this program, which takes costs out of areas of the business that are burdened by harmful regulatory policies.

"Meanwhile, we continue to speed our business transformation by focusing on growth areas in wireline and wireless. We are also creating more certainty for investors by accelerating expense reductions."

The pension-related charges will not affect required 2004 pension trust contributions, which Verizon announced earlier this year would total approximately $125 million.

A Fortune 10 company, Verizon Communications (NYSE:VZ) is one of the world's leading providers of communications services, with approximately $67 billion in revenues. Verizon companies are the largest providers of wireline and wireless communications in the United States, with more than 139 million access line equivalents and 36 million Verizon Wireless customers. Verizon is the third largest long-distance carrier for U.S. consumers, with nearly 16 million long-distance lines. The company is also the largest directory publisher in the world, as measured by directory titles and circulation. Verizon's international presence includes wireline and wireless communications operations and investments, primarily in the Americas and Europe. For more information, visit
