Adverse Ruling in Contempt Proceeding in Rudolph Patent
Infringement Case

As part of the proceedings in the patent infringement case brought against Camtek by August Technology Corp. (now Rudolph Technologies, Inc.) in the Federal District Court for the District of Minnesota, on March 26, 2012, the District Court issued an Order adopting the Magistrate Judge's Report and Recommendation on contempt and damages in a sum of $1,291,892. A separate proceeding before the Magistrate Judge was ordered to determine attorneys' fees to be awarded in connection with the contempt charges.

The District Court held that some of Camtek's communications made during 2009 related to the eventual sale of some of its Falcon systems in Asia were prohibited by the injunction that was then in place (the injunction was vacated by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit in August 2011).

Camtek is currently in the process of studying this ruling and intends to appeal it. At this stage, Camtek cannot estimate its monetary exposure as a result of this ruling, if at all.
