NTT DoCoMo and Nippon Television Network to Form Business Tie-Up

TOKYO, JAPAN, February 9, 2006 NTT DoCoMo, Inc. announced today that it has agreed with Nippon Television Network Corporation (NTV) on a business tie-up to develop content and related services that combine mobile communications and conventional TV programs.

Under the agreement, the companies will form a seven-year limited liability partnership, D.N. dream partners LLP, on April 3, 2006 (tentative), with DoCoMo investing five billion yen and NTV five billion yen. The partnership will invest in content and also develop content itself, including TV programs that can be viewed with mobile phones.

In addition, the two companies will jointly study new business opportunities, including a service that combines so-called "One-segment" terrestrial digital broadcasting that will begin in Japan this spring, and i-mode services, as well as content developed by NTV for DoCoMo's conventional services such as V-Live video streaming and i-motion video clip distribution services. NTV entertainment events with special activities for users of "Osafu-Keitai" phones equipped with IC chips are also planned.
