Item 1.01 Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement.

On December 1, 2010, Wright Express Corporation (the "Company") purchased put option contracts and sold call option contracts, designed to be a costless collar, on the wholesale price of gasoline and the retail price of diesel fuel with Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. (collectively, the "Contracts"). The Contracts have an aggregate notional amount of 10,049,104 gallons of gasoline and diesel fuel and will expire on a monthly basis during the last quarter of 2011 and first two quarters of 2012. The settlement of the Contracts is based upon the New York Mercantile on-highway diesel fuel price for the month. The Contracts lock in a weighted average retail floor price of approximately $2.98 per gallon and a weighted average retail ceiling price of approximately $3.04 per gallon.

On December 6, 2010, the Company issued a press release announcing this transaction.
