SUBJECT: Kicking Off Planning For The Integration!

We're on our way!

Last week, over 50 of our colleagues from TD Bank Financial Group, TD Banknorth and Commerce held an exciting integration kick off meeting in New York to begin planning for the successful integration of our companies. This was a critical step in our journey to build a true North American powerhouse centered on convenience and service for Customers, should we receive shareholder and regulatory approval.

While we all recognized the magnitude and complexities of the challenges ahead, I was inspired by the confidence, leadership and universal agreement that we have a unique opportunity to create an unparalleled Wow! experience for our Customers and our employees while delivering superior results for our shareholders.

Integration Principles

Much of the discussion centered on the principles that will guide us in our decision making throughout the integration. They speak to the key commitments we'll keep to our Customers, employees and shareholders. Specifically, we will:

- Protect and enhance the Customer experience and expand our Customer base

- Establish common leadership values and create a common culture built around the Customer

- Treat employees fairly and with respect throughout the process

- Communicate major decisions to employees as soon as we can

- Leverage the best and the most cost-effective applications and processes to meet the needs of the new, stronger combined entity

Since the transaction was first announced, I have met with thousands of employees at both Commerce and TD Banknorth and have been incredibly impressed with how excited everyone is about the opportunities created when we bring our companies together. I am absolutely confident that by adhering to these guiding principles, engaging our world-class employees and remaining relentlessly focused on what's best for our Customers not only will we succeed we'll set a new benchmark for excellence in North American financial services!

How will we do it? By leveraging the best each company has to offer. By attacking new markets, attracting new Customers, accelerating our asset gathering capabilities and cross selling additional products and services, such as wealth management, through our expanded network of more than 1,000 stores and by creating an unparalleled employee experience.

Next steps: Integration Committees

The Committee Chairs and Co-Chairs are naming members to their teams and they will map out an integration blueprint for each of their respective areas. These blueprints, due in mid-January, will establish what steps we need to take to enhance the Customer experience, align operating systems and corporate functions, confirm financial synergies and determine quick wins for Customers, employees and shareholders.

Keeping you informed

We're committed to communicating with you frequently as we move forward and you should expect to hear a lot more. Our first of many scheduled updates will be out in the next two weeks. We'll also introduce dedicated space on the various corporate intranet sites to share important information about the planned integration, provide answers to frequently asked questions and solicit your feedback on how we're doing.

I know you share the enthusiasm and passion I saw in the meeting last week. I challenged each person in the room to think big, approach the task of planning to combine our companies with an open mind and agree that there is only one sacred cow—the Customer.

As we Wow! our Customers with service and convenience, the rest will take care of itself and ensure our success. I ask you to accept the challenge as well and join us on this amazing journey to create a North American powerhouse! For our employees in the U.S., have a safe and happy Thanksgiving.
