SUBJECT: Integration Planning Update

Highlights:

- Integration Blueprints complete
- Shareholder vote
- Managing our recruiting efforts
- Enhancing our culture: an ongoing dialogue

With 2008 underway, I want to wish each of you a Happy New Year as well as provide you with the latest update on our integration planning. 2008 is going to be an exciting year, and we have a lot to celebrate! I am delighted to share with you that we are making tremendous progress on our plans to leverage the best from TD, TD Banknorth and Commerce to create a true North American Powerhouse centered on unparalleled convenience and legendary service.

Integration Blueprints complete

The Integration Committees have been hard at work and have completed Blueprints for each of their areas. These have been presented to the Executive Decisioning Committee consisting of Dennis DiFlorio, Bob Falese, John Fridlington and myself for review and consideration. The Blueprints are high-level recommendations designed to enhance the Customer experience, align our operating systems and corporate functions, confirm financial synergies and determine quick wins for Customers, Employees and Shareholders. As plans are finalized, we will be sharing additional detail with you in the coming weeks and months. I have been incredibly impressed with the quality of the Integration Blueprints and am particularly pleased that the recommendations are consistent with our Integration Principles to protect and enhance the Customer experience, treat Employees fairly and with respect, and leverage the best and most cost-effective applications and processes to meet the needs of the new, stronger combined entity. I would like to extend a heartfelt thanks to everyone including the Chairs, Co-Chairs and Integration Team Members who contributed to this extraordinary effort. I know the Blueprints involved a tremendous amount of hard work and collaboration under extremely tight timelines and that many people worked over the holidays to deliver this really great work.

Shareholder vote date February 6

One of the key milestones for the integration is obtaining Commerce Bancorp Shareholder approval for the transaction. Commerce Bancorp has set February 6, 2008, as the date for its Shareholders to vote on the approval of the merger agreement between TD and Commerce Bancorp. We will share news regarding the outcome of the vote as soon as it is available.

Managing our recruiting efforts

As we build a true North American Powerhouse, we will need to leverage the incredible talent we have at both Commerce and TD Banknorth. In order to maximize the number of job opportunities available to our Employees, we will be limiting external hiring in both companies over the next several months while we establish our staffing requirements going forward. If you have questions about how this will impact your business area, please consult with your manager and your Human Resources teams.

Enhancing our culture: an ongoing dialogue

As we combine our companies, it will be critical for us to build on the two great cultures already in place at both TD Banknorth and Commerce to forge a new, even stronger culture going forward. To a large extent, this will depend on both your input and engagement. In order to facilitate an ongoing dialogue, I am delighted to share with you two exciting initiatives to assist us in this effort.

First, we are undertaking a Culture Assessment to give us a clear understanding of both the similarities and differences between TD Banknorth and Commerce cultures and to help us define the desired culture for the new organization.

The Assessment will begin with a survey of randomly selected Employees at both Commerce and TD Banknorth representing a cross-section of business and functional areas. The survey will ask about our current cultures and, more importantly, what people would like the culture to look like in our new organization. We will also be interviewing leaders in both organizations and hosting a series of Employee Focus Groups on this topic. When the Assessment is completed later this spring, we will share the feedback, outcome and next steps as we work together to shape a new, even more vibrant culture based on the strengths of the combined organizations and our shared vision for the future.

The second initiative is an ongoing Integration Pulse survey. Beginning in February, all Employees at TD Banknorth and Commerce will be invited to participate in a quick, anonymous monthly survey regarding our integration activities, the evolution of our culture and how well we are delivering on our commitments. This survey will be an important opportunity for you to have your opinions heard and will help us assess and communicate progress toward our desired culture. We will provide quarterly updates on the results of the Integration Pulse and how we are planning to respond to your feedback.

I know that these two initiatives, combined with ongoing open communication and teamwork, will help us create a truly unique culture that will WOW! our Customers, Employees and Shareholders. Watch for more information about the Culture Assessment and Integration Pulse in the coming weeks as they are rolled out.

We're well on our way

Lastly, I want to share with you how impressed and thankful I am for all of your efforts on behalf of our Customers even in the midst of the extensive integration planning underway. Your commitment and dedication is tremendous. We are well on our way to defining a new standard of excellence in North American financial services and I look forward to keeping you informed of our progress through these integration updates, postings to the integration sections on our corporate intranet sites and in meetings with your teams.

Regards,

Bharat
